Sunday morning at half past 10 o'clock the Church of the Good Shepherd will be consecrated. Bishop F. R.
Millspaugh will conduct the service of consecration, and Bishop Francis K.
Brooke of Oklahoma will preach the sermon. A number of other clergy will be present and assist. Ever since this church was built, twenty years ago, it has been burdened with a debt and consequently could never be consecrated. During the summer help has been received by the bishop for this church, and recently a friend of the bishop added an amount sufficient to pay up all the indebtedness. The service Sunday morning will consist of a shortened form of morning prayer, the consecration service and celebration of the Holy Eucharist. Special music has been prepared. In the evening the Rev. Walter C. Bentley, of New York city, secretary of the Actors' Church Alliance, will preach. The Actors' Church Alliance was organized some ten or twelve years ago, and Bishop Henry Codrington Potter, of New York, is president. The object of this alliance is to assist the church at large in establishing closer relations with those people following the dramatic profession. Rev. Mr. Bentley was for years an actor, but left the stage for the ministry and has made it his life work to bring about the elevation of the stage.
The alliance is nonsectarian and receives the support of the clergy and members of all churches. A general invitation is extended to the public to attend both of these services.

Because they could not negotiate a small loan from Edward Gerald, Arthur Walker and Will Simmons cut him behind the back and stole a bottle of whisky and a small amount of cash before being chased out of the premises by Mrs. Jones. The house got a good look at the robber, and is certain that it was a man in woman's attire. She also thinks that she would recognize the person if she saw him again.

The police chased out to the house, as usual in such cases, but failed to find any clue. The burglar took a good look at the police and is certain that he will not be caught.

TRIES NEW TACK.

Chief of Police Visits Two Swell Clubs.

Elks and Topeka Club Are Investigated.

HE MADE NO ARRESTS.

Action of the Officers Creates Much Excitement.

Four Joints Are Also Raided
With Small Results.

When the wild rumor that the Elks and Topeka club were being raided was abroad Thursday afternoon, there was joy among the gossip retailers and consideration among the club members.
The chief did go around and call at both places, but he very thoughtfully chose a time of day when the stewards and porters alone held the fort.

The motive seems to have been nothing worse than rank and rather ungallant curiosity on the part of the chief, who, perhaps, has at some time been denied admission to one or both of the clubs and saw a chance to look over the interior of said clubs in his official capacity.

McCollum and Sergeant Darby called at the Elks first. Ascending to the handsome stained glass door they pushed in the jingle bell. The porter opened the door cautiously, not desiring to admit any one but a member. When he saw the visitors he started to remove the crack between the door and casing. "Ha, ha," said the chief, "I think, stringy tone of voice. "Polled Ha, ha some more." Then he and the sergeant poked themselves through the orifice in the door and made themselves at home in the interior, where they looked carefully behind several volumes of "Elks I Have Met," gazed longingly at the lockers to which certain members held the keys, and went sadly alone. They were warrentless, right-less and alone. How sad!

CHAPTER II.
"Ha, ha," gurgled Chief McCollum, in a low, bass-toned tone of voice. "Ha, ha, we have them with the goods. This grand mansion at the crossing of the pike is the resting place of certain business men. Surely, we will capture a bountiful treasure of booze on the premises. For this is the far famed Topeka club."

So saying he and his trusty henchman, the sergeant, approached and smote upon the portcullis. "What ho, Vassals and Vassalines. Come hither, for we would have a word with you in admittance." So the Vassal in Chief let down the gap. "Whom do you wish to see?" asked the steward of the castle.
"We would see the chief," answered the Chief Bandit, who was doing the conversation act. Thereupon he strolled through the labyrinth of tapestry, taking note of the closed vaults where reposed the "spirits" of absent ones.
After ascertaining what the boss cook was preparing for dinner the two bold pirates went sadly away, leaving a glorious charge, remarked the Chief to his confederate as they strolled down the principal pike. "Verily, forthwith, Admiral Woodland and Commodore McFarland cannot fail to be impressed with my activity."

About 5 o'clock last evening a bold, bad burglar, attired in woman's clothing and a feminine look, tried to rob the residence of Mrs. J. A. Jones of 1115 Quincy street, and succeeded in lifting a small amount of cash before being chased out of the premises by Mrs. Jones.
The lady got a good look at the robber, and is certain that it was
person if she saw him again.

ALL BOUND OVER.

Gamblers Are Each Held In
$1,000 Bond.

They All Waive Preliminary in City Court.

WILL ATTACK LAW.

Believed That Is to Be Chief Point of Accused.

Has Never Been Tested in the Supreme Court.

Jury Which Will Try the Case Is Drawn.

The four defendants, charged by County Attorney Hungate under the Cubbin law with gambling, waived their preliminary hearing in the city court this morning before Judge Mc-Cabe and were bound over to stand trial at the next term of the district court. The bond was placed at $1,000 each. The four bonds of Mike Thompson, Wood Fowler, Tobie Tobias and Al Hurst, were signed by R. F. Hodgins.

As the defendants waived their preliminary hearing no testimony was introduced in the city court. The defendants were represented by Eugene Hagan and C. A. Magaw. No objection was made to the amount of the bond fixed by Judge McCabe, which was double the bond required to hold the defendants for the preliminary hearing.

Hale Ritchie was first suggested as bondsmen. Judge McCabe announced that he was a satisfactory bondsmen.
Before the time for the bond to be signed, however, Mr. Ritchie changed his mind. Another bondsmen was suggested, R. F. Hodgins volunteered as bondsmen and satisfied the court that he was financially responsible for the amounts of the bonds.

It had been expected before the day of the preliminary that the defendants would waive, as was announced in the State Journal. The names of only 14 witnesses were introduced on the complaint for the preliminary hearing.
County Attorney Hungate has the names of over 60 witnesses that can be called to testify during the four defendants and before the trial in the district court is begun the names of the rest of the witnesses can be introduced on the complaint. The four defendants will be in doubt, except as to the 14 witnesses, who Hungate will call to testify before the jury in the district court.

The transcript in the case will at once be filed from the city court in the district court and the cases against the four defendants will be placed on the docket for trial at the January term of the district court, which will begin January 11. The first week of the January term will be taken up with motions. The first assignment of cases to the jury will be during the four defendants and the gambling case, from the city court, will be on that docket for trial. The criminal docket for the January term will be set for hearing early in the term, not later than the first week in January or the first week in February.

Two important murder trials will be disposed of before the end of the present term and there will be no reason why the gambling case shall not come speedy trial. Although Judge Hazen has made no announcement regarding the case, further than to state that it will be set on the first criminal assignment for trial, it is understood that Judge Hazen will brook no delay in the trial of the case. That this will be his policy is supported by the fact that he set the trial of Will Mason, charged with the murder of Fred Tutcher, for as early a trial as was possible. Judge Hazen has the district court docket well cleaned up to date.

quantities has been found by Assistant Chief of Police Schuttler, hidden in the covery was followed by the immediate institution of a search for the persons is said to be connected with the car-barn bandits captured in the swamps across the Indiana state line.
